DEPARTMENT OF PHYSICS

Mentor-Mentee Details

2019-20

Mentoring is a powerful tool for helping students grow academically, personally, and professionally, fostering success in both their education and future careers. Mentors assist students in setting academic goals, improving study habits, and managing their time effectively, which can lead to better grades and academic performance. Students often experience stress, anxiety, or self-doubt during their college years. Mentors can offer encouragement and a safe space to discuss concerns, reducing feelings of isolation.

POST GRADUATE DEPARTMENT OF ECONOMICS, SREE NARAYANA COLLEGE, KANNUR

The Department of Economics at Sree Narayana College, Kannur, has consistently implemented a robust mentor-mentee system aimed at fostering academic, societal, and psychological growth among students. This system serves as a cornerstone for enhancing student engagement and support throughout their educational journey.

The primary objectives of the mentor-mentee system include identifying the academic, societal, and psychological needs of mentees through regular interactions, which allows mentors to provide tailored guidance and inform students about available support systems. Additionally, mentors and teachers extend emotional and moral support to students requiring special attention, with regular communication with parents fostering a holistic approach to student well-being. Mentors also continuously monitor academic performance, identifying slow and lazy learners who may benefit from remedial coaching and counselling. Furthermore, advanced learners are recognized based on their outstanding track records and ongoing evaluations, with opportunities provided for skill enhancement to help them excel.

The Department implements a variety of activities tailored to student needs, informed by insights from mentor-mentee interactions. Each year, students are grouped alphabetically into two or three cohorts, each assigned a designated faculty mentor, with this structure remaining unchanged throughout the course to foster stronger bonds and facilitate peer learning. Mentors also conduct personal interviews with mentees every semester, promoting open communication and addressing individual concerns. Additionally, the department organizes engaging activities such as debates on state and central government economic policies, group assignments and presentations, and discussions on current economic topics. The outcomes of this mentor-mentee system have been notably positive, including improved academic performance due to continuous support and monitoring, greater peer learning through structured dynamics, enhanced opportunities for students to apply theoretical knowledge, and improved mental health resulting from the emotional support provided by mentors, all contributing to a healthier academic environment.
